You Search, They Give at Philanthropic Search Engine

Being part of a non-profit hospital has many positives for our patients, like immediate access to insurance carriers, emergency service, and medical specialists if the need should ever arise. However, as a non-profit we rely heavily on contributions from donors and the North Oakland Foundation for our clinical equipment and for funding of our scholarship program called Adopt a Euro-Kid. So when we heard about the philanthropic website GoodSearch.com from one of our industrious parents (Gail Hubert), we applied to be a partnering non-profit and were excited to be accepted!

GoodSearch launched in 2005 as a search engine which donates 50-percent of its revenue to the charities and schools designated by its users. You use GoodSearch exactly as you would any other search engine. The users and the organizations do not spend a dime! GoodSearch.com is powered by Yahoo! so you'll find that it is equally expedient with search results. Since it doesn't cost anything and you get proven search results, there's no reason not to use a website in which you search and they give! Now that Euro-Pēds is one of their approved non-profits from which you can choose to support, our clinic can receive one cent every time you use the site to search the web. Ultimately, consistent use of GoodSearch.com would allow us to enhance our clinical equipment and to continue to award Adopt a Euro-Kids grants to our patients to help offset therapy costs not covered by insurance.

We hope you'll not only use GoodSearch as your main search engine from now on, but will also tell your friends, family and co-workers so they, too, can start searching for a good cause! Thank you GoodSearch; thank you Gail Hubert; and thanks to all our supporters who are making it their new home page!

Adriana's Journey, by Patty Lyons, Westerville, Ohio

"In my darkest moments, my greatest sorrow and fear for Adriana is that she will be forever trapped by her own body. It was a sunny afternoon on May 12 [2005] when this fear was put to rest. This was the day that Adriana put all of the pieces together as she scooted, crawled and rolled across the room to retrieve one of her favorite books... It wasn't until I reviewed her annual goals for her Early Intervention service plan that I realized Adriana had achieved so much in such a short time. Not only is Adriana mobile, crawling and rolling independently with specific intent; she is working one-on-one with her therapists, she is clearly responding to "yes" and "no" questions, she knows her right and her left, and she is responding to verbal cues. As parents, we picture a life and a future for our children before they are even born. This picture is revisited often in our minds... While Adriana and I go through her daily exercise routine...massaging, stretching, strength training, sitting, standing, reaching, crawling...I can't help but remember that this is the picture that doctors labeled, "worse-case scenario." It is true that the life I had pictured for Adriana was forever gone when her life began fifteen weeks early. Since then, we have been painting a new picture, wrestling to accept her disabilities and delays. The two-weeks we spent at Euro-Pēds has given us a beautiful backdrop to a new dream...to new possibilities for Adriana. Every life is a journey. No matter how difficult it may be, Adriana's journey through life is a trip worth taking and I am privileged to be along for the ride".

~July 2005, as excerpted from "Adriana's Adventures," and Discovery. Adriana is now on her fifth intensive PT session at Euro-Pēds and is learning to use her gait trainer and to ride a bike with assistance.

little man
a documentary film by nicole conn

"Every parent, every person working with preterm infants and their families must see the movie."
(Dr. Heidelise Als, Harvard Medical School and Dir. of Neurobehaviorial Infant and Child Studies at Children's Hospital, Boston).

If you missed "Little Man," on PBS in January, you can purchase your own limited edition DVD at www.littlemanthemovie.com. This documentary film by special needs mother, Nicole Conn, takes a deeply personal and touching perspective on raising a pre-term infant.
